DO YOU WANT TO LEARN TO PLAY THE DRUMS?

Sam Foulds is a qualified drum teacher who has worked with children as young as six years right through to adults in their 70s. He has wide knowledge of different playing styles and customizes lessons to fit the exact needs and preferences of the person he is teaching. He has played in jazz bands, rock groups and in musical theatre. His approach is centered on the individual and focused on their needs and objectives. He can coach right through the grades or simply teach drumming skills from the simplest level.

His approach is friendly and relaxed and designed to ensure people reach their potential and have some fun along the way!

"Our lessons were very beneficial, as I learnt new beats and techniques to improve my playing, which also benefited other people as I play in church. Not only did I learn lots, I also enjoyed the lessons immensely." Dan aged 16

"The lessons taught by Sam were certainly the most enjoyable and the most productive that I have received since I started playing. I feel as if I have improved tenfold as a player and a performer with Sam's guidance." Jack aged 16
